Information Sought :

1. What is the minimum educational qualification required by a citizen of India in order to be able to comply with Acts and Rules stipulated by the Department of Revenue
2. What arrangement has the department made in order to enable citizens who are illiterate or who do not have the required level of education to comply with Acts and Rules stipulated by the Department of Revenue
(It should be noted that only about 50% of the population of India has a primary level of education)
3. Is the Department of Revenue justified as per the constitution of India that ensures equality in penalizing a citizen who is illiterate or who does not possess a minimum educational qualification, and fails to comply with Acts and Rules as stipulated by the Department of Revenue
4. Does the proposal of imposing Transaction Taxes by the NGO Arthakranti enable every citizen, irrespective of education level or literacy, comply with the goals of the Department of Revenue.
